Position description

Job title

(Senior) Manager M&A - Energy Sector

Function

Advisory - Senior Manager

Roles & Responsibilities

Climate change means that we have to change the way the world consumes and produces energy. How do we ensure enough energy for everyone while also solving the climate challenge? This is one of the defining challenges of our time.

Our energy team is dedicated to support clients through the energy transition by combining strategic expertise, sector insight and market leading deal origination and execution. We present an exciting opportunity for new hires, both in terms of professional opportunity as in terms of real-world impact.

As a (Senior) Manager of the M&A team, you will be responsible for supporting business origination efforts, lead focused streams of execution on transactions and support Directors in further developing the franchise. You will need to demonstrate a strong desire to learn to support origination efforts in M&A.

Key responsibilities can be summarized as follows:

Origination responsibilities will include preparing value added content and supporting the strategic dialogue with our clients. You are also expected to help build energysector knowledge and intelligence to deepen our franchise's expertise;

Over time, you will need to become a reliable point of contact for C-level client contacts, developing and sustaining strong and long-lasting client relationships and understanding of their broader business needs;

On transaction execution, you are expected to lead and support key workstreams including a.o. client management, project and process management, due diligence, financial modelling, valuation and negotiation of transaction documentation demonstrating a high level of expertise across the entire transaction lifecycle;

You will need to contribute to the development of the M&A team through the deepening of functional knowledge and insights; demonstrating expertise; the codification of best practices; and the development of new services, tools, methodologies.
