What will you be doing as an Azure architect?

The common thread running through all of our activities? Our love for Azure and everything cloud-related. Let's have a look at what you'll be doing on a daily basis:

First things first: as an Azure Architect, you'll be spending 60% of your time with the customer. You'll get a special seat at the development table and work together closely with the development team in order to prepare their organization for upcoming IT challenges.

So how exactly will you do that? You are an Azure endwatcher. you'll keep a close eye on cloud evolutions and share your knowledge with equally excited tech experts. Together, you'll adapt the existing systems or develop Azure-run solutions to fix the problems of the future .

You'll be visiting our clients to give workshops and presentations on the many opportunities the cloud can bring, sharing the insights you've gained through experience and self-education.

Having explored the world of everything Azure, you'll not only help our customers to make the transition to the cloud, but you'll also challenge their status quo and help them (and us!) to innovate.

With your advanced technical skills, you'll also collaborate closely with other teams within delaware to support them in their cloud implementation projects.

But wait, there's more: You'll be part of the brand new Cloud Enablement & Operations solution. We currently have 2 SAP experts and 11 Microsoft lovers on our team, but are looking forward to welcome an Azure Architect like yourself. You will work either from our office in Ghent or the one in Kortrijk. But of course, you will spend a lot of time to visit our customers and work on site.
