Information is the new gold, as you as an Information Management Consultant know better than anyone. Companies and employees can work more smartly and more efficiently, and can also perform better, when all the structured and unstructured information is unlocked, intelligently managed and made available internally. That's what drives you. And where better can you do that than as part of the fastest-growing information management specialist in the Benelux region.

What makes us different? First of all, we should point out that we work more broadly than the traditional enterprise content management (ECM) approach. We also always consider the process side of the wider information issue (including in terms of SAP) and establish links between different technologies. But this job isn't for a pure techie, because you're also expected to provide input from a strategic perspective. An information architecture is increasingly a solution architecture : how can your customer get the most out of all the information that is present within the entire company? It's important to never lose sight of the big picture.

What will you be doing?

As an enterprise content management/information management specialist, you create an overview of all the information flows .

You devise and develop information solutions for your customers based on one of the various technologies in our portfolio.

You set up an information architecture and partly configure the solution yourself, enlisting the help of developers where necessary.

Needless to say, you also monitor the integration and testing process.

You manage projects from start to finish : you translate your customer's needs into a blueprint and technical design, take care of the implementation and configuration and hold the necessary workshops and training courses for the customer.

You also regularly provide input into ERP projects to ensure that any information gaps are filled. You're the type of consultant who takes the customer by the hand and points out the opportunities and potential threats.

In other words, you're not afraid to take the lead.

You also regularly put your expertise to good use to help the sales team in the pre-sales phase.

Our clients come from every conceivable industry and our projects are very diverse, so there will be plenty of variety – but that also demands the necessary degree of flexibility from you as a consultant.
