“On my current project, I am developing a B2B e-commerce website, using Kentico CMS. This platform allows the client to customize the content they want to display, analyze user behavior, and trigger marketing campaigns, etc. The client wanted to be able to create and manage the delivery modes themselves, and I was in charge of retrieving the new delivery methods that the company had registered and that were stored in the SQL Server database. I developed the data retrieval part in .NET, and for the display on the e-commerce site, I used the React library. I was in contact with the customer’s IT department throughout to make sure that the final result was exactly what they wanted.” — Yassine Layachi
