What will you be doing as an experienced Salesforce Business Analyst?

As a part of the Salesforce team, you will be involved in the entire functional and technical business consulting cycle from A to Z.

During these projects, your main focus is helping clients create added value for their customers by optimizing and digitalizing their business processes, such as marketing, sales, fulfillment, and support, using Salesforce as your engine.

Are you consumed by a passion to figure out the most ideal CRM and business process solution for your customer? You'll do what it takes in cooperation with IT and the business to deliver just what the customer needs.

You'll listen, analyze and eventually co-create the solution that meets their needs.

You'll get the chance to take ownership over a variety of projects, which last two to four months. This gives you the chance to tackle projects for a wide array of customers across a broad spectrum of industries.

As a jack-of-all-trades, you'll get to know the client's process functionally and technically; it will be your job to configure and develop the software to tailor to the customer's business needs. No choosing between pure business or IT work, you'll be involved in the whole project from A to Z.

Of course, you won't have to take all of this on by yourself. Throughout your journey, you can count on the support of more experienced team members to guide and teach you.

We have hubs in our delaware offices in Ghent and Lummen. You can choose to work at the office or work from home and make the occasional trip to one of our customers. You'll experience the flexibility, drive and excitement of an upcoming offering within delaware, while also enjoying all the support and stability of an international consultancy firm.
