What will you be doing as an MES Lead Consultant?

You'll have quite a diverse to-do list, if you ask us:

As an MES lead consultant, you'll visualize and map the customer's production processes and discover where optimization opportunities arise, making use of existing and new technologies.

You'll lead and realize this MES project within a production environment from start to finish. From the blueprint phase, functional design, realization, testing, training and preparation... right up to the actual go-live.

You will take up the architect role for the functional side of the project, leading the development team and coaching your junior colleagues and key users at the customer's side.

During the data and architecture design phase, you'll make sure to keep an eye on the strategic focus points of the customer's manufacturing department. Do they provide answer to their business challenges?

For your first project you will be working mainly on site at our customer's HQ in the region of Kortrijk.
