Company: ITQ

Location: Belgium

Category: computer-and-mathematical

Do you have a passion for software development and are you able to challenge customers on how development can become a business driver? Will you help us grow further with your entrepreneurial work mentality? Then we have an ideal role for you as a Senior Software Engineer at ITQ.

ITQ's Cloud Native team focuses on helping our customers on their Application Modernization journey. We do this in two ways; by designing, deploying and operationalizing modern (containerized) platforms such as Kubernetes on-premises or in public cloud, and by helping to migrate application portfolios to these modern platforms. Your role will be to help customers with their application migration, from strategy to execution. This involves a lot of independence and responsibility; you really get the chance to make changes within an organization.

Does that sound like something you want to be a part of? And are you a senior software engineer with the ability to quickly accept and embrace new technology? You have experience with and an opinion on architectural patterns such as microservices, and development-related concepts and methodologies such as Agile and DevOps. You have architectural skills: you participate in or lead the development of the technical solution, and are able to translate business needs into technical requirements.

We are one, we are ITQ!
